

Two Films for People Following Their Dreams!

LIVE YOUR DREAM

The Taylor Anderson Story

Directed by Regge Life

This film is a story about courage and sacrifice of Taylor Anderson and for all the young people who travel the world trying to make a difference. Taylor was an extraordinary American who dedicated herself to teaching Japanese children, living her dream right up to the disaster of March 11, 2011.

The 400-Year-Long Dream

A Story of Choir "TOMO" in Spain

Directed by Kyoko Gasha

New York Choir "Tomo" takes a trip down the four-century-old memory lane, across the ocean in Coria Del Rio. In this Spanish town, they come face to face with the Japon family, descendants of Japanese travelers from ages ago. It is here that the two groups form a brand new friendship, one that hopefully lasts longer than a "400-year-long dream."
